

more

originally published in NōD 18, Mohkinstsis, 2015

genderfuck is a blood word because how do you contain all your earthly experiences in a single label crying over bras and yes miss and pointedly plucking out pubic hair until blood pools in the crevice where your thighs end and your body begins feel of fresh buzz cuts and properly applied eyeliner and leather belts and yes sir

genderfuck is a blood word because you have checked your godforsaken privilege at the door ten thousand times and still it is home, it is calm, it is quietly protesting and calling your name

genderfuck is a blood word because how can something feel so safe and so violent at the same time you feel most feminine in a collared shirt and pants and yet here you are :

you are twelve and are politically choosing pink over blue, skirt over jeans, because they think you are Boy you get misgendered anyway consider punching them they say genderfuck is a blood word but you (are Woman and you) are forceful you (are Woman and you) are strong you (are Woman and you) are more